IRA carnage in London: when is the Government going to start getting tough?

FOLLOWING the appalling bomb outrages committed by the IRA in London last month, the Government has made the expected clucking noises of disapproval but has said or done nothing to indicate that it intends to deal seriously with the IRA in the future anymore than it has done in the past.

The most that we have heard from certain Conservative MPs is that we should change the law which permits citizens of the Irish Republic to enjoy certain special rights in the United Kingdom, including the right to vote in British elections. We agree that a change in this law is long overdue but it has little bearing, if any, on the problem of IRA terrorism.

The terrorists are still thriving and carrying out their works of destruction and atrocity for 3 principal reasons:—

- (a) The Government still refuses to treat the IRA terror campaign as a war against the people of this country and to deal with the IRA thugs as it would deal with enemies in a real war. Troops in Northern Ireland are not permitted to employ their full fire-power against the thugs. IRA men are allowed to fire salutes at Republican funerals without our forces being ordered to arrest or shoot them.
- (b) There is still no real deterrent to the terrorists. If caught, they will not receive the death sentence they deserve but will go to a prison where they will be given most of the home comforts and treated with kid gloves.
- (c) The IRA has been encouraged by the Government to think that its campaign of terror is paying off, and eventually will pay off totally. The Government is presently trying to establish a Northern Ireland assembly which will appease the forces of Republicanism by including several Republican representatives. The IRA believes — and it has good reason to believe — that if it continues its terror long enough and causes enough loss of life the Government's nerve will crack and it will abandon Northern Ireland. It is well known on the inside of political circles that this is the Government's eventual wish but it cannot officially admit it to be so at the moment. What the Government should do to convince the British people that it means business in dealing with the IRA is first to treat those criminals as they would enemies in a full-scale war — to be eliminated by all means available. Then it should introduce real deterrents which would discourage those thinking of participating in IRA activities from doing so. The Conservative Party in the House of Commons, which forms a clear majority, should be persuaded to vote for the restoration of the death penalty, and IRA men who go to prison should be treated with real harshness.

Finally, the Government should make it absolutely clear that it will never abandon Northern Ireland. Not merely words are necessary to this purpose, but actions as well. The Northern Ireland assembly idea should be dropped, and only politicians loyal to the United Kingdom permitted to take part in the political life of the province. All liaison with the Irish Republican Government over the affairs of Northern Ireland should be broken off and it made clear to that Government that Northern Ireland is not its business.

The Government — and here we mean Mrs. Thatcher — should also drop from its Cabinet the dripping wets who have a long record of appeasement of Britain's enemies within and without, such as Willie Whitelaw, Jim Prior and Francis Pym. The restoration of peace and order in the United Kingdom requires a strong Home Secretary. Willie is not up to the mark and must go.

I.R.A. STEP UP TERROR WHILE GOVT. PUSSYFOOTS

RACE TROUBLE FLARES THROUGHOUT BRITAIN

THIS SUMMER, just like last Summer, Britain is in the grip of a dangerous and potentially catastrophic outbreak of race trouble in a number of her cities.

The trouble is not quite on the scale of last year — in some areas the police have improved their techniques for dealing with disorder and in some others they have acted under orders just to do nothing — but the riots and destruction have been big enough to warrant massive headlines in the press and on TV and radio. The reason why they have not received these headlines is that there has been a deliberate campaign by the media — acting in accordance with pressures from the 'Race Relations' industry — to play down the scale and importance of the disorder.

In Brixton it was admitted in the Daily Telegraph on July 26th (on an inside page of course) that racial violence was worsening and crime was alarmingly up since last Summer's riots in the area. When one police officer went to arrest a man suspected of mugging and identified thus by the victim, he was set upon by a large Black mob and badly beaten up. Two policemen who told two Black youths not to ride their bicycles on the pavement were attacked by another mob and had to be taken to hospital, one with a thumb and two ribs broken and the other with a suspected ruptured spleen.

Meanwhile in Toxteth (Liverpool) there have been new out-

Repeat of last Summer's riots played down by media breaks of rioting. Black mobs several hundred strong have set about the police on a number of occasions. Rampaging Blacks set fire to a block of flats and firemen sent to deal with the blaze were stoned.

It is the same story in The Midlands, where racial trouble has occurred regularly throughout the Summer. In one particularly horrific incident that took place recently in Wolverhampton, a young policewoman who arrested a Black teenager for alleged shoplifting was set upon by a screaming mob of Black youths who tried to hurl her over a 30-foot parapet in the Mander Shopping Centre in the town. When other police arrived to help her they found over 100 young Blacks around her.

In Bedford a little earlier in the year another policewoman was set upon by a Black mob when she tried to make an arrest. Some members of the mob were apprehended by the police but later released when an even larger Black mob besieged the local police station.

In any ordinary circumstances these disturbances would have been major national news and would thus have shown that nothing has changed since the Summer of 1981. Instead they were given only the smallest mention in the papers and deliberately either ignored or played down in TV and radio news bulletins. The establishment is petrified of the effect that these continued outbreaks of race trouble could have on public opinion in this country. News-casters therefore have been given instructions, either to pretend they never happened, or to relegate them to minor incidents.

The truth is that the chickens of the multi-racial experiment are now coming home to roost. The experiment is an utter disaster and only full-scale repatriation can now provide the remedy.

DEALING WITH TERROR

THE OUTRAGEOUS and cowardly murder of British troops and civilians in Central London by murderous IRA thugs is a sin crying to heaven for vengeance. It serves to demonstrate yet again the folly of treating the IRA with kid gloves.

But whenever it is suggested that reprisals should be taken against IRA terrorists, our politicians raise their arms in horror and tell us that we should allow tempers to cool and then consider the matter dispassionately and "in perspective." And so the carnage on our streets continues and the toll of death mounts daily. Once again political cowardice reigns supreme.

Decisive and ruthless action is needed now if we are ever to rid ourselves of the IRA canker. The politicians must understand that the IRA are not normal humans but brutish thugs of the most depraved kind. Anyone who thinks otherwise should remember that imprisoned IRA terrorists are the sort of people who smear their cells with their own excreta as a form of protest. Can such people be human?

They are cowards too, who indiscriminately kill women and children in the furtherance of their evil cause; they do not attack the British people openly as did the Argentinians in the recent Falklands war. Instead they prefer to lurk out of sight, operating by stealth and wreaking death, destruction and havoc on unsuspecting and innocent people.

There must be no more pussy-footing around with the IRA. Our troops in Northern Ireland must be given real bullets instead of rubber ones; a mandatory death sentence must be introduced for anyone convicted of terrorism; and the political organisations and groups which give aid and succour to the IRA must be banned. Never again must IRA sympathisers be allowed to demonstrate and march in British cities.

There is only one thing that IRA butchers understand, and that is the sure knowledge that every act of terrorism will be met with a swift and certain retribution. The Government must adopt the policy of the mailed fist without delay and must use it to strike the IRA hard and often until that evil organisation is completely stamped out.

ON JULY 13 a mob of 150 black youths attacked police in Brixton with stones, bottles and bricks after the police had tried to arrest four black youths suspected of stealing a car. Two policemen were hurt and two panda cars badly damaged.

THE GLC has agreed to set up a radio station for Blacks after receiving complaints that ethnic issues do not get fair coverage on existing radio stations.

THE HONG KONG Government is trying to persuade Britain to accept more Vietnamese boat people. The Home Office is considering the request.

THE GOVERNMENT is considering relaxing immigration rules to enable immigrant women settled in Britain to bring their husbands or fiancés here. This will mean that thousands of Asian women will have the right to marry men from the Indian sub-continent and bring them here.

AFTER being freed early from prison by the Parole Board, sadist Paul Corrihan murdered 13-year-old John Heddon after subjecting him to 10 hours of homosexual torture. The Home Office refuses to say whether the Parole Board was aware that Corrihan had written a novel describing homosexual torture while he was in prison.

ARGYLE SQUARE, Kings Cross, has become one of London's most notorious centres of vice. The vice business is run by Mervyn Reid, a 40-year-old Rastafarian who operates from the Regina Hotel, which is owned by Mahboob Khan. Last month Khan's brother, Amjad, was convicted of running a brothel in the hotel.

LIBERAL MP David Alton has announced that he will try to introduce a Bill in the Commons to give muggers' victims the right to appeal to the courts for heavier sentences to be passed on their attackers.

IN DISMISSING a plea before the Court of Appeal, Lord Denning told an illegal immigrant that it was a "proud thing and a privilege" to be British. He added: "This privilege should not be accorded to a person who has come into this country unlawfully in breach of our laws."

THE HOME OFFICE is considering a plan to give preference to coloured applicants for jobs in the police. The plan has been attacked by Mr. Jim Jardine, chairman of the Police Federation. He said: "We are not in favour of positive discrimination."

JUNGLE LAW

How positive discrimination is being applied in the courts

PUTTING PRESSURE ON THE LAW

This scene outside the court during the Bristol riot trial shows how Black pressure groups try to intimidate the law into granting acquittals to their kinfolk

EVER SINCE this paper was launched we have devoted a great deal of space to drawing attention to the way the British judicial system has been manipulated in favour of coloured people. Coloured criminals who have committed even the most horrific crimes today stand a very good chance of not being brought before the courts, and, even if they are, their chances of being acquitted or receiving only a token sentence are very much higher than they are for the rest of the population. The outcome of the Bristol, Brixton and Toxteth riot trials, and the Terry May and "Bradford 12" trials makes it perfectly clear that coloured people are now virtually immune to the full rigours of the law as it is applied to the rest of the population.

More recently, the lenience with which coloured offenders are dealt with by the legal system has been demonstrated by the Law Lords' decision not to order the retrial of Newton Rose, a West Indian convicted of murdering a white man, but whose sentence of life imprisonment was quashed because an impatient judge foolishly set a time limit for the jury to reach a verdict. So a white man lies dead and his black murderer goes free. This decision does not surprise us because one of the Law Lords who helped to make it was none other than Lord Scarman, whose infamous Report makes it quite clear where his sympathies lie.

Had the murderer been white and the victim black, we suspect that their Lordships would have come to a very different decision. That a retrial of Rose was refused, whereas two retrials were ordered in the case of Joseph Pearce, whose only offence was that he published material which contravened the notorious Race Acts, conclusively shows that there are now two laws in Britain: one for coloured people, and another for the rest of us. We are becoming second-class citizens in our own land.

It is becoming increasingly clear that "positive discrimination" in favour of coloured people is being systematically introduced into the British legal system. To begin with, there is a marked reluctance to prosecute coloured offenders for fear that such action might provoke a riot, or that those preferring charges might be accused of racism.

SCENE FROM THE BRISTOL RIOTS 1980
Many of the rioters got off scot-free

And even when Coloureds are brought before the courts, their right to challenge jurors enables them to manipulate the composition of the jury so as to ensure their acquittal. Quite obviously this is sheer madness, and British justice, which was once the envy of the world, is falling into complete and utter disrepute.

Since Magna Carta, equality before the law marked Britain out from other countries. Today, however, British Law is being supplanted by the law of the jungle in order to placate the hordes of aliens the politicians have foolishly — indeed, criminally — allowed to settle in our midst.

THOSE WHO SERVE

When scheming politicians fail,
And craven statesmen lose their nerve,
They all turn just a trifle pale
And loudly call on those who serve:

"Quick! Send for Tommy Atkins now,
And quickly send for brave Jack Tar;
They'll sort our problem out somehow,
For that is just the sort they are!"

Quotes

"But the instinct, the sheer gut feeling, that a certain 'they' — the people who dominate television and radio — are not on the side of 'us' — the average of the British public — is absolutely right."

— Andrew Alexander in the Daily Mail

"Colonel H, for example, would have been at school when Roy Jenkins as Home Secretary was working so enthusiastically to transform Britain into a land fit for queers, cranks, pornographers and criminals to live in."

— Peregrine Worsthorpe in The Daily Telegraph

"I was educated before the destruction of the English educational system."

— Sir David Hunt, winner of the BBC's Mastermind Champions' Final

New Frontier, though it believes in racial differences, opposes race-hatred. All those who oppose multi-racialism should attack the politicians who promote it, not the immigrants, who are merely its victims.

YOUR LETTERS

Sir,—During the past few months we have had much criticism of the police, particularly in relation to Nationalist demonstrations. As a policeman, I wish to point out that we are a disciplined service and have to obey our superiors. It is not possible for a Bobbie to carry out his duties with impartiality now as it was in the past. In this multi-racial fiasco we have two laws: one for the natives of our land, and one for the 'ethnic' population. It is a very fair cop if we bring in a skinhead and book him; but let us book an ethnic, especially if he is black, then all hell breaks loose at the desk. An internal problem is created for which an inspector at least is required, and he will fall over backwards to avoid a prosecution. The arresting officer may also end up with a reprimand for tactlessness in dealing with the situation in the first place.

It is better to ignore black crime if possible, and many young coppers do. Can you blame them? I think not. This rot stems from "Weak-Kneed Willie" and his colleagues and is supported by ultra-wet Chief Constables whom I shall not name.

My days in what was a proud service are at an end, as is the Force as we knew it. I'm not a racist, just another sickened copper.

BRITISH BOBBIE,
Huddersfield

Sir,—As a British girl I would like to thank you for your editorial "Women at Risk." You hit the nail exactly on the head when you say that many sex crimes are caused by "the proliferation of sex shops and pornography, and the salacious and degrading influence of TV."

Your approach is so much more sensible than all these neurotic women's libbers who keep bleating on about sexual harassment at work. They simply divert attention away from the serious issues of sexual crime. I'm a 34-year-old London office worker who is not unattractive and yet I have never been sexually harassed during my 17 years in a London office where the girls are outnumbered by men. True, our British menfolk tease us, flirt with us, and sometimes fancy us. But we girls, if we are honest, like being fancied and chased by the men. British men, unlike aliens, always treat us considerably, even if they do flirt with us.

There's a world of difference between a mild flirtation at the office and the sexual viciousness that has been unleashed by the permissiveness the liberal do-gooders have thrust on us. You, Sir, are right when you say that rape was once a comparatively rare crime in Britain. Pornography and TV, both largely controlled by aliens, have made certain that rape and indecent assault on women are now quite commonplace. It is imperative that pornography must be banned and TV cleaned up. Women will then be able to feel a lot safer than we do now.

OFFICE GIRL
London SE9

Sir,—If the police are unable to prevent criminals breaking into the Queen's bedroom, what hope is there for a poor girl like me living in a basement flat? Though I have chains, locks and bolts on my door and bars on my windows, that didn't prevent a thief breaking in while I was out. Luckily I own very little he could steal, but what would have happened to me if I'd been in? I'm scared. We must have much stiffer penalties for criminals.

C. YOUNG
London N15

Sir,—I think I'll become a mugger; it's so lucrative and the penalties so slight.

THE FALKLANDS-LEBANON CONNECTION

The Editor examines some aspects of recent events

NOT LONG AGO IRA thugs in Dublin murdered Britain's ambassador in Eire. Had Britain responded by killing a few thousand Irish citizens in reprisal, howls of execration would have been heard from media commentators the world over. Foreign governments would have denounced Britain for being an "imperialist aggressor"; the United Nations would have condemned Britain and demanded international trade sanctions against us; and that figment of the imagination known as "world opinion" would have been thoroughly shocked. But what a very different reaction there has been to Israel's ferocious attack on the Lebanon that was launched in retaliation against the attempt made on the life of the Israeli ambassador in London!

The Israelis have used the attempted assassination as a pretext for inflicting such carnage in the Lebanon that civilian deaths have been variously reported as ranging between 6,000 and 20,000 people, and Beirut has been almost totally destroyed. But despite this latter-day holocaust, "world opinion" remains strangely muted — a phenomenon that is not surprising when one remembers that Zionists have a controlling interest over much of the international news media. In Britain Zionists have sought to justify Israeli bloodlust by paying for large pro-Israeli advertisements in daily newspapers. Selling advertising space is far more important to Fleet Street than the slaughter of a few thousand Lebanese citizens and dispossessed Palestinians.

There can be little doubt that the shooting of Ambassador

Shlomo Argov in London provided war criminal Menachem Begin with just the excuse he needed for attacking the Lebanon, and it could scarcely have come at a better time. With world attention already conveniently diverted away from the Middle East by the heroic exploits of British servicemen in the South Atlantic, he had the perfect opportunity to silence once and for all the increasingly troublesome Palestinian refugees living in the Lebanon.

An Israeli armoured column moves through the captured port city of Sidon. A victim of bombing raid lies in the street.

Anyone with an enquiring mind must wonder whether the timing of the invasions of the Falkland Islands and the Lebanon was pure coincidence, or whether it was the result of a cleverly planned secret operation. Probably it was no more coincidental than the timing of the Suez fiasco and the Hungarian Rising, both of which occurred simultaneously a quarter of a century ago; and we must therefore conclude that there may well be a sinister relationship between recent events occurring in the South Atlantic and the Middle East.

What we can be certain about is that the forthcoming Government inquiry into the Falklands affair will not touch on these matters. If the inquiry is to have any credibility whatsoever, the following questions must be

3. What was the real part played by the United Nations in these events? We may be quite sure that whatever else we may learn from the inquiry, these three questions will remain unanswered. So let us try and answer the questions for ourselves.

We shall probably never discover precisely what the disgraced Lord Carrington was up to in Israel. Suffice it to say that the Noble Lord is a Trilateralist, a Biederburger, and has Chatham House and banking connections.

It is not so difficult to understand why Israel supplied Skyhawk and Dagger jet fighters and Exocet and Gabriel anti-ship missiles to Argentina. Ever since Argentina turned a blind eye towards Israel's abduction of Adolf Eichmann from Buenos Aires in 1960, and his judicial murder two years later, the two countries have enjoyed a special relationship. Argentina has been rewarded by receiving Israeli armaments. This is surprising, for Israel claims to be continually under threat of attack from her Arab neighbours and consequently in desperate need of foreign weapons, particularly American ones. If that is so, how is it that she is able to export so many high technology weapons to Argentina?

Just as intriguing as Israel's role as a supplier of weapons is the role of the United Nations in the Falklands affair and the Lebanon. It was the UN which as long ago as 1965 persuaded the then British Government to discuss the sovereignty of the Falklands with Argentina. No action could have been more certain to give the Argentines the false idea that they had some claim to the islands. And when Israel's warlords attacked the Lebanon, the UN "peace-keeping" force moved out of their way with remarkable alacrity. Indeed, the Israeli Chief of Staff, General Rafael Eitan, even boasted that he had an "understanding" with, and was encouraged by, General William Callaghan, the UN's Irish commander!

These revelations will surprise nobody. Far from being concerned with maintaining world peace, the UN is a meddlesome body intent upon bringing about the state of affairs so ardently desired by the one-worlders. The UN has never prevented any war at any time. On the contrary, it has actually supported, if not fomented, wars. Older readers will remember that as early as 1948 the UN discarded the lofty principles of the "United Nations Charter" by giving its support to the Zionist usurpation of Palestine. Britain was ordered to do the dirty work: "The United Kingdom shall carry out these measures."

In view of what has happened in past years and recent weeks, we are not surprised that Mrs. Thatcher has refused to publish the texts of the negotiations that took place between Britain, Argentina, the USA and the UN prior to, and during, the Falklands dispute. Nor are we surprised that Foreign Office paper shredding machines have reportedly been working overtime. The Government does not want the public to know about the skulduggery that has been going on behind the scenes — skulduggery that has sadly resulted in the deaths of more than 250 British servicemen.

TALKING POINTS

by FRONTIERSMAN

A HOLLOW CLAIM

The Zionist Federation of Great Britain and Ireland recently placed a large advert in several daily newspapers claiming that Israel's attack on the Lebanon was "an exercise of legitimate self defence" and that Israeli forces "took maximum precautions to ensure that the civilian population would not be harmed." In view of the enormous carnage the Israelis have inflicted on that unfortunate country this seems to be a particularly hollow claim.

By using their terrible power of the purse to pay for adverts in the papers, the Zionists hope that yet again they will persuade the gullible British public into believing that Zionists have an inalienable right to hang on by any means to the land that they have usurped from the hapless Palestinians; and they also hope to convince us that they conducted their invasion of the Lebanon with humanity. The horrific toll of civilian deaths speaks otherwise, as do other examples of Zionist brutality, like those at Deir Yassin and the King David Hotel in Jerusalem. The fact that British Zionists try to persuade us by means of adverts shows how shaky their claims are. Truth doesn't need to be advertised.

BRACHIATING MUGGERS

According to the Gardener's Chronicle & Horticultural Trade Journal, Birmingham Metropolitan Council has decided to plant trees with thin trunks so that muggers can't hide behind them. The Council has also for some time been planting trees with almost vertical branches to prevent birds roosting in them. It occurs to me that vertical branches may also help to prevent tree-dwelling muggers from descending upon their unsuspecting victims. After all, it is strongly rumoured that some Homo sapiens do still live in the trees.

DENNING'S ABJECT SURRENDER

The extent to which aliens are manipulating Britain's once highly respected legal system is becoming more apparent every day. In a previous issue we drew attention to the fact that juries stacked with coloured jurors are becoming the norm when coloured people come before the courts. And when coloured people are charged with serious offences they know that they are almost certainly going to be found not guilty; and if by some mishap they are found guilty, they know that they will be dealt with far more leniently than white malefactors.

The multiracialists have now scored another victory by enforcing the retirement of Lord Denning, Master of the Rolls. In a refreshingly honest book just published Lord Denning wrote of jurors: "Some of them come from countries where bribery and graft are accepted as an integral part of life and where stealing is a virtue so long as you are not found out." He might have added that many of them come from lands where mugging, rape, drug peddling and vice are endemic and where, until comparatively recent times, many of the inhabitants were still living in the Old Stone Age.

Predictably, his Lordship has withdrawn the book following legal threats made by two Blacks who served on the jury in the Bristol riot case. Who put them up to that I wonder? And why did so fearless and outspoken a judge as Lord Denning make such an abject surrender?

TOTAL EXCLUSION

I see that a number of TV and newspaper reporters are complaining that during the fighting in the Falklands they were subjected to "rigid, unreasonable and stupid" censorship. Were they indeed? How many British lives might have been saved if these anti-British media hacks had been kept well away from the theatre of operations? It seems to me that it was just as important to have a "Total Exclusion Zone" for media personnel as it was for the Argentine Navy. In the event the Argentines didn't need an intelligence service; all they needed to do was to switch on the BBC or read the London dailies. One reporter, Richard Savill of the Press Association, even complained that he had been prevented from attending the funeral of Lt. Col. H. Jones and the paratroopers who died with him at Goose Green. I'm quite sure that the gallant Colonel and his men wouldn't have wanted the likes of Savill at their funeral anyway.

KISS OF DEATH

I don't pretend to know very much about the ASLEF railway drivers' dispute with British Rail because the intricacies of flexible rostering are beyond my understanding. All I can say is that I personally know several members of ASLEF and they are all likeable and responsible men, not the sort who would go on strike unless they believed that they had good cause. But whatever the rights and wrongs of their case, the appearance of Tony Benn, formerly Anthony Wedgwood-Benn, formerly Lord Stansgate, alongside ASLEF's pickets at Kings Cross must have caused dismay to many drivers. To have had the support of such a jackass, who only a few weeks ago was calling on Britain to stop fighting the Argentine warlords who had invaded the Falklands, must have seemed to them to be the kiss of death.

NOTTING HILL RIOTS 1982

A conspiracy of silence

SO FAR this year there have been at least two riots in Notting Hill in which black people were conspicuously involved, but both incidents have been almost ignored by the media. Why is this? Could it be that orders have been received from on high to keep quiet about rioting Blacks in the hope that the problem may then go away?

It certainly seems so. After the second riot, during which 24 people were arrested for preventing the police from apprehending a black couple suspected of drug peddling, a police spokesman said: "It was not a riot, just a disturbance." In view of the fact that 100 anti-riot police had to be drafted in to restore order, and that eight police, one a woman, were injured, this seems to be rather an understatement. It was later revealed that some of the rioters also made petrol bombs to use against the police. Some "disturbance"!

Suspicion that there is now an official conspiracy of silence about the activities of rampaging Blacks is further strengthened by the revelation that another riot took place in the same area on Maundy Thursday when 100 mainly black youths bombarded several police vehicles with stones and other missiles. On that occasion the police issued no details and the incident received scant attention from the media.

This lovely young British girl is Nicola Daly aged 23. A few weeks ago Nicola married Lt. Anthony Daly of the Blues and Royals. She had everything to live for, but today Nicola is a widow as a result of the cowardly savagery of the IRA. New Frontier demands that the Government takes immediate and effective steps to put down the IRA before there are more like Nicola.

Why the press and TV are reluctant to publicise news of this sort is mysterious since they are usually only too keen to devote their energies to anything sensational in order to boost the sale of their wares; but for the police to play down the matter means only one thing — they have received instructions from the Home Office not to do anything that might upset the 'ethnic communities'. That there is such an official policy of going easy on Blacks was later confirmed when a 32-year-old clippie, Mrs. Florence Bigrigg, was attacked in her bus by six black women after she demanded that they pay her the correct fares. Police pulled the women off Mrs. Bigrigg, but then let them go, much to her astonishment. However, one policeman apologetically told her that the police were "under instructions to go soft on Blacks."

The Home Office's lenient attitude towards law-breaking Blacks is quite intolerable. It is turning Whites into second-class citizens in their own country, and it guarantees that Blacks will become ever more cocky and insolent towards the white population — which is hardly a recipe for the 'harmonious race relations' so beloved by the multiracialists. The law must be fully restored and equally applied to all people as it was prior to the influx of coloured immigrants. Immigrants and their offspring who flout our laws should be deported to the lands from which they or their ancestors originated. Failure to take action along these lines will inevitably result in our country sliding even further into the morass of lawlessness and anarchy. But by far the best solution to these problems would be the immediate commencement of a humane policy of immigrant repatriation.

NORTHERN REPORT

LEEDS

At a meeting on July 29th, Leeds branch were hosts to representatives from several other branches. Present were members from Bradford, Liverpool and Merseyside, York, East London and Ealing.

Guest speaker Eddy Morrison in his address pointed out that the Race Relations Act had led to discrimination against our fellow Britons inasmuch that standards were prepared to be lowered when dealing with immigrant applications for jobs which hitherto had had strict minimum qualification conditions. He was, of course, referring to the recent decision of the Chief Constable of Derbyshire in waiving the requirement of four 'O' levels and a minimum height of five feet eight inches for twelve blacks who wished to be considered for police training.

Mike Gibson, Leeds Organiser, spoke of the need for unity and the ability and, indeed, vital necessity for branches and groups to work together for the common good.

The Chairman, John Wood, continuing on this subject of unity said that the British National Party offered the greatest chance for dedicated Nationalists to join together, to forget previous petty differences and stand as one in the face of our common enemy.

Saturday, July 31st saw the BNP in an anti-IRA meeting in the centre of Leeds. Around fifty members and supporters were present including members from other Nationalist organisations. It is understood that two arrests were made.

YORK

Following a recent visit to York by Leeds and Humberside members, the formation of a branch is well under way, and a local member, Peter Poole, is acting organiser. This, naturally, is subject to confirmation by HQ.

LIVERPOOL

Local organiser Joe Owens is arranging a meeting in about two or three weeks time. Other Northern Area members wishing to attend will be advised of the date and venue by their Branch Organisers. The speaker will be John Wood.

Cassettes

BNP Recordings offer two cassettes dealing with Nationalist topics:-

PARTY GROWTH

The last month has been a very encouraging one for the growth of the British National Party, with a number of new active groups formed and the promise of more on the way.

At a meeting in Birmingham at the beginning of this month attended by party Leader John Tyndall and National Organiser Charles Parker the foundations of a proper branch were laid. The Birmingham party unit had previously revolved almost solely around Mr. Keith Axon, who had put in much hard work but with scarcely any support. At the meeting a number of newcomers came forward to help Mr. Axon and a programme of regular activities and meetings was set up.

From our Yorkshire and Humberside Region comes the news of the formation of a new active group in York, with Peter Poole the acting Organiser.

Now at long last the party has a proper active unit in Manchester, following a meeting in the city on the 3rd August. This has been made possible by the defection to the BNP on the part of a number of members of other nationalist organisations tired of those organisations' obstruction of nationalist unity. The acting Organiser of Manchester group is Gordon Gee.

In the West London suburb of Ealing several new members have recently joined, and now a proper active group is at last possible, whereas previously party stalwart Jock Shaw acted as sole party representative in the area.

In Southend a local group has been set up following the joining of the party by some ex-members of British Movement. These will assist established stalwarts Malvern Tipping and Brian Callow in the extension of activities.

In Brighton a small active group has also been formed following meetings between Charles Parker and a number of young local activists who have crossed over from the National Front. The group is now regularly leafletting and distributing party papers.

In addition to these developments, there is also now promise of an expansion of the party in Worthing (Sussex), Edinburgh, West Wales and North Devon. We hope to have further news from these areas next month.

SOCIAL

October 2nd sees the Leeds BNP annual social. More details from Leeds Organiser.

FUTURE EVENTS

An Area Organisers' meeting has been arranged for the 15th August. This will be held in Leeds, and all those who are eligible to attend have been notified.

HELP OUR PARTY GROW. GIVE GENEROUSLY TO FIGHTING FUND

Dear Reader,

In this paper you will have had the opportunity to read about the views of the British National Party and to find out its policies.

It is our resolve that during the next few years this party grows into a great force in British politics.

To do this, it needs two things: hard work by dedicated activists; and MONEY - lots of it. On this page we are appealing to you in particular to support the new party with money.

In the first phase of the party's development the money you give will be used mainly for the following purposes:-

- (1) To increase the party's administrative and organisational staff
- (2) To purchase modern equipment for its office
- (3) To expand the output of its literature and other means of publicity
- (4) To purchase transport facilities for enabling its activists to be more mobile.

For the purpose of raising this money, we are immediately launching a Fighting Fund to which we ask all those who support the party to contribute.

You can contribute to the Fighting Fund in either of two ways - or both ways.

One is to send your money in a lump sum to us as soon as possible, then to send further lump sums as and when you are able.

The other is to make out a standing order with your bankers to send us a regular sum every month, quarter, half-year or year that is within your means.

If you adopt the standing order procedure, you will want to know the name and address of our bankers and our account number. The bankers are Lloyds Bank Ltd., 125 Church Road, Hove, E. Sussex BN3 2AN, and our account number is 1040539.

Please make out all remittances to the British National Party (in full) and address them - except money by standing order - to PO Box 115, Hove, E. Sussex BN3 3SB. In the case of bankers' standing orders, please ensure to inform us of any such order made.

This is a great cause to which we are asking you to contribute. Please give generously. Please give now!

WHAT WE STAND FOR

- The return of leadership and statesmanship to British affairs.
- A government that will put British interests first.
- British withdrawal from the European Common Market.
- Closer links with the White Commonwealth.
- Protection of British industry by the exclusion of foreign manufactured goods from Britain.
- A sane financial system which will give to the people the purchasing power to buy the goods they produce.
- The revival of British farming.
- British ownership and control of British industry and resources.
- A clamp-down on social security spongers and the restoration of the incentive to work.
- An end to immigration and a start to repatriation.
- British support of the Whites in South Africa.
- An end to financial aid to black dictatorships
- The strengthening of Britain's defences.
- Tougher treatment of criminals.
- The smashing of the IRA, the death penalty for terrorists and firm support for the Loyalist majority in Northern Ireland.
- Repeal of the laws permitting Abortion and Homosexuality and a general toughening up of legislation against the promotion of obscenity in the media.
- The elimination of Communism in Britain, in the mass media, in the factory and in the schoolroom.
